

ABSTRACT

Method for producing novel cheese products having a fibrous texture and a fresh and lactic taste by processing an initial raw material which includes a drawn-curd cheese having a firm and fibrous texture, adding a defined quantity of fermented milk product and processing the mixture.